

Murder International Presents

The Boudin Noir Theatre Company

Welcome to an evening of MURDER and INTRIGUE provided by
MURDER INTERNATIONAL

Tonight is the announcement and celebration dinner of a new venue for the company. The new venue is Ellingford Hippodrome and the new play is called Ketchup at Christmas. The Boudin Noir Theatre Company is a touring company which was formed ten years ago by Madame Candice Dupree.

Why is Madame so protective about her past?
Why is Monica called Wednesday Webster?
All the company members are eager to find out who will get the lead roll in the new play.

When the castings are announced tonight there is a lot of unrest among the actors.

Madame will be here tonight as no doubt will Daphne Richards and all the other company members. Jocelyn Pearson has organised a small competition. The best answer to this question (who would make a good panto character) will win a prize.

Ursula Bailey, the company's wardrobe and props supervisor, has suggested that you might want to arrive in any costume for the occasion and she has hinted that there might be a small prize for the best turnout. Don't go to the trouble of hiring costumes, just see what you can do with a bit of make-up and what's in your wardrobe.

If you arrive after 7:30pm the play will already be underway and you may miss some very interesting revelations.
